We have been learning a lot about the continents and countries around the world. We have looked at languages, cities, habitats, and animals all over the world.

We will be learning about time in math, so try having your child tell you the time at home to practice.

In March, students are going to be learning about weather, the water cycle, and severe storms. They will learn about the tools, the scientists, and the conditions that create our weather and seasons.

Our class had a great time at our READ-A-THON yesterday. I hope your child told you all about it!
